

Is there nepotism in city hall?

By Christopher Shoust - December 11, 2017

A motion put forward by councilor Matthew Shoemaker and councilor Ozzie Grandinetti regarding the accumulation of data for employees of the city and their relationship to other city employees failed tonight at city council.

It was a topic that did come with heated debate where councilor Frank Fata was shut down by the mayor and councilor Grandinetti's notions were flat out denied.

Councillor Grandinetti seems to think it happens every day while councilors like Steve Butland seemed to be in disgust over the mere mention of it.

No one could come to agree on how this data would be collected and for that reason it failed to garner any movement.

Please feel free to comment on your position on the matter, below.
